Description

Before Ferruccio Lamborghini turned his attention to building some of the most famous supercars in the world, he established his reputation with Lamborghini Trattori. The Lamborghinietta DL20, built in the mid-1950s, is a wonderful example of this era – a compact, reliable, and stylish Italian tractor that reflects the roots of the Lamborghini legend. This 1956 DL20 is presented as a fully working restoration project – mechanically sound and usable in its current state, while also offering an exciting opportunity for restoration to concours or display condition. Whether used as a unique heritage vehicle, a showpiece, or as part of a wider Lamborghini collection, the DL20 is a rare and fascinating piece of automotive history.
